

EPISCOPALIANS ACT IN DEFENCE OF JEWS

Russian Church Urged to Absolve Race From Ritualistic Murder.

MANNING FOR ONE CHURCH

Declares Prospects for Final Union of Faiths Never Was Brighter.

The House of Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal convention yesterday passed a resolution offered by the Rev. J. H. Manning of Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn, which calls upon the archbishops, bishops and other bodies of the Holy Orthodox Eastern Church of Russia to make formal pronouncement that charges of so-called ritualistic murders are without foundation or justification in the teachings and practice of the religion of Israel.

The resolution also reminds these authorities that in the early days of Christianity similar charges were made by ignorance and superstition against the Christian religion.

Mr. Manning said that many Jews had asked him to introduce such a resolution and he reminded the deputies that after three years in a city of 1,000,000 Jews, who were "brothers in the flesh of our Lord and Saviour." A similar protest has been made by the Church of England.

The resolution was adopted by the convention and administration to which the House of Deputies subscribed on Tuesday by its resolution favoring the formation of provinces and the election of a bishop as its executive head, occupied the attention of the house for the greater part of yesterday morning. When noon came the session of the proposed canon was still under discussion, along with many amendments, and it was referred back to committee.

Manning Pleads for Unity.

The Rev. William T. Manning took up the remaining hour with a presentation of the report of the joint committee named three years ago to forward the movement of a world conference on questions of faith and order to the end that church unity may be established.

At his suggestion the House of Deputies decided to allow the commission to incorporate so that it will be able to receive bequests. If these things are done, the time is the $75,000 remaining from the original gift of $100,000 made three years ago by J. Pierpont Morgan, when the movement was started.

In presenting the report, which has already appeared in these columns, Dr. Manning said:

"The plan is for a great conference to consider in the spirit of Christians those things in which Christians differ. This conference is to have strictly limited powers. It is to be a conference for study and discussion without powers to legislate or pass resolutions. Never since the attempt makes it a hopeful undertaking and a practical possibility. It is only the first step and while only a humble one it may be a great step toward the ultimate reunion of all churches that hold Christ for their master."

Desire for Union Strong.

He said that no less than thirty-one religious communities had committed to the project and that it had been enthusiastically approved by high dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church and the Holy Orthodox Church of the East. He said that the difficulties were great, but that they were not insuperable. He said that this matter was not being looked at from the human point of view and that with nothing was impossible and that the church became disunited, he declared, had been a time when the desire for unity was so strong as at this moment.

"This is not a question," he concluded, "of what each group has to give up, but of what each group has to give. These estrangements of churches are intolerable and they must cease."

He then introduced a resolution providing for the incorporation of the commission. Francis Lynde Stetson seconded the motion and explained that it was for the purpose of freeing the Morgan gift, which had been entrusted to him, from the contingencies of life and death. The resolution was carried without dissent.

Discuss Canon on Provinces.

Only two sections of the proposed canon on provinces were discussed yesterday. The representative body in the province will be known as the Provincial Synod and will be composed of the provincial synod and the diocesan synod. Under an amendment passed yesterday it will be a single body and not bi-cameral as at first proposed, although the bishops may meet separately on any matter which may arise.

Some objection was made to the suggestion of a single body because of the danger that the clerical and lay deputies representing the province might be overruled by the presence of the bishops. The Rev. John Williams of Nebraska, who urged at this possibility, hastened to assure the deputies that he had got to the point where he wasn't afraid of a whole bench of bishops.

Amendments Offered to the Fifth Section of the proposed canon in which the powers of the provincial synod are set forth, amendments were offered to the selection of courts of review and the selection of the social service board.

Another amendment provided that except where the canon specifically designates, no diocesan or provincial synod shall be compelled to hand over the administration of any matter to the provincial synod unless it desires. These and other amendments were all referred to the committee on canon law to be reported to the resolution in accordance with them and to reintroduce it this morning.

Three Bishops Resign.

The House of Bishops accepted yesterday the resignations of three of its members. The Right Rev. Lemuel Henry Williams, missionary Bishop of Spokane, and the Right Rev. William Crane Gray, non-resident Bishop of southern Florida, resigned because of old age and infirmities. The Right Rev. Dr. Abner Williamson, missionary Bishop of Cuba, resigned to become capital vice-chancellor of the University of the South at Seawater, Tenn.

GERMAN DRAMA PLEASES.

"Kasernenluft" at the Irving Place Theatre Well Praised.

The strong drama of German military life, "Kasernenluft" was produced last night at the Irving Place Theatre and made the most decidedly favorable impression of any play that Director Christy has yet presented.

The play has been referred to as an arrangement of the military system of the German Empire, but it appears more as a picture of the justice that might result from the continuance of a small and petty officer of most any military organization.

The company gave the play an interesting and successful presentation. Captain Meyer was pleasing as the talky, vigorous Major. Heinrich Marlow played with distinction the part of the old veteran, Christian Frizzen, and Rudolf Adler made an excellent Hans. Feller was played by a great deal of finish and respectation by Ernst Robert and Koester were well done by Ernst Holmhaide. Annie Simpson was a somewhat tearful sweetheart, but won the sympathy of her audience.

TRIUMPH FOR MISS MARLOWE.

She Scores Again With Sothern in "Twelfth Night."

Perhaps it was that she plays gives more opportunity for the display of her winsome grace and appealing charm that have won Miss Julia Marlowe as many friends as her more exacting parts, than that of Viola in "Twelfth Night," in which she was seen last night at the Manhattan Opera House.

Sothern's striking characterization of Malvolio gained the admiration of his hearers, even as Miss Marlowe's grace won the hearts of the players were announced before the curtain at the end of every scene, while at the close of the play many of the audience pressed forward to the stage to call the principals forth again and again.

Plans for Season's Opera Given Out.

Gatti-Casazza Announces a Varied Programme at Metropolitan.

Success Assured by Largest Subscription Ever Received.

Giulio Gatti-Casazza told the plans of the forthcoming season at the Metropolitan Opera House yesterday afternoon. The first opera will be "Manon Lescaut," by Massenet, with Geraldine Farrar, Enrico Caruso, Antonio Scotti and Dini Gilly. The opening will fall on Monday, November 17. In that week will take place the first revival of the season. This will be "Crispino e della," in which it will be sung by Mmes. Destinn, Hempel and Matzenauer and MM. Caruso, Scotti and Amato. The first novelty will be "Der Rosenkavalier," by Richard Strauss, with Mme. Hempel in the leading role. Others in the cast will be Mmes. Ocker and Anna Case and Otto Goritz. For the revivals, which will be made this year as well as for the Nibelungen Ring, there will be entirely new scenery.

A New Italian Opera.

In Christmas week a new Italian opera with text by Seno Benelli and music by Italo Montemezzi will be produced for the first time at this country. In it will appear Lacerza, Fiori and Pasquale Amato, as well as Fontana Ferrari of the Boston Opera Company, husband of Mme. Matzenauer. He created this same role last winter at La Scala. Before this there will be produced for the first time "Maddalena," by Victor Herbert, with text by Grant Stuart. This is the American work of the present season and will be sung in English by Mmes. Alda and MM. Altough, Scotti, and Leonora Skarke.

At the end of February Gustave Charpentier's "Gaudete" will be sung for the first time here and the composer will come to this country to attend the rehearsals. This was the great success of the past season in Paris. Caruso will have the leading role of the opera, which will be sung in Italian. The last novelty of the season will be "L'Amore Medico," which is the latest work of Emanuele Wolf-Ferrari. The leading role of the singers has not yet been made.

"I think the Metropolitan Opera House," said Signor Gatti-Casazza, "will offer the most varied and the richest programme it has ever given the public. In it will be sung in English, moreover, and in excellent English at that; so it will not be long before he is able to talk with fluency in that tongue."

Other Revivals.

Other revivals of the season will be "Pellaea," with Signor Scotti in the leading role, "Gaudete," in which it is hoped Signor Caruso may appear; "Samson et Dalila," with Mme. Matzenauer, and "Monte Carlo," in addition to the operas of the Nibelungen Ring, which have never been so wonderfully produced before. In "Crispino e della" will sing Mmes. Gilly will have the other parts.

The subscription for the season is now $1,000,000. The subscription is headed by Sophie Brooking and Margaret Ober, Lillian Eubank and Rudolf Berger, a new robust tenor, Two new baritone are Robert Leach and Carl Schlegel.

The subscription is larger than in any previous year, so the financial success of the season is already guaranteed.
